Dedicated To Serve The

MY JOURNEY OF VOLUNTEERING

MESSAGE FROM DIRECTOR MR. STEPHEN YANG

I am honoured to share my greetings and reflections on my volunteering journey. I was born in Shanghai, China. After graduating from Fudan University with a Bachelor of Computer Science degree, I came to Australia in 2008 for further study and stayed in Sydney for work and living. I worked in large Australian companies, including Telstra and Optus, for over 10 years. In 2022, I achieved a major career transition after completing Finance and Mortgage Broking courses. Since then, I have been working as a mortgage broker, providing professional financial advice to people in need.

As I became more flexible at work after changing my career, I found myself yearning for the satisfaction and happiness that volunteering had given me before. In 2022, I learned CASS was recruiting volunteers for assisting in settlement services. I applied for the position which I started my journey of volunteering at CASS by providing form-filling and smart device support to new migrants in the community. I was honoured to be elected Alternate Director of the Chinese Australian Services Society in November 2022, and then as a Director a year later, allowing me to contribute more strategically and extend our services to reach even more people in need.

My years of volunteering have not only broadened my social circle but also enriched my worldview and values. It has made me realise the importance of “doing good to others”. By helping others, you are essentially making yourself a better person. This positive energy is interconnected and flows both ways.

The mission of CASS to serve the community and support the multicultural communities deeply inspires me. I often encourage my family members, friends, and colleagues to get involved in volunteering or simply start by being helpful to others. I sincerely hope that I can inspire more people, especially more young people with ambitions and a kind heart, to join the volunteering work and discover the beauty of this world through these valuable experiences.

This honour recognises Professor Li's selfless dedication to the health and well-being of the culturally and linguistically diverse (CALD) communities for over 28 years. As a pathologist, Professor Li has consistently made complex medical information accessible and culturally meaningful through seminars, media, and outreach. During the COVID-19 pandemic, he served as a trusted voice, voluntarily delivering over 400 webinars. As Chairperson, Professor Li has guided CASS through major reforms and growth, including planning the second RACF and pioneering the CASS H-Line Non-Crisis Hotline for mental health support. His compassion and leadership continue to inspire a healthier, more inclusive future. As Professor Li was overseas at the time of the ceremony, the Hon. Chris Minns MP, Premier of NSW, presented the trophy to Professor Li at the CASS Volunteer Thanksgiving Luncheon 2025.

My time at CASS is filled with wonderful moments, not only teaching English in the classroom, but also sharing smiles and confidence with students on stage. This photo captures a rehearsal for the Mid-Autumn Festival English song performance, where every laugh and note radiates joy. Watching students bravely express themselves in English and share festive happiness with the community gives me a deep sense of fulfillment. CASS is not just a place for learning, but a warm, welcoming family where beautiful moments are nurtured and every memory is cherished.

During the Moon Festival celebration at the CASS activity group, I captured a touching moment — a nearly 90-year-old elder kindly watching over a five-year-old girl. The girl was holding a balloon and a stuffed toy, her bright smile lighting up the scene as they happily interacted. This warm connection between generations shows the care and love within our community. It is truly an unforgettable moment at CASS.

This photo was taken several years ago at a fundraising event co-organised by the Cancer Foundation and CASS. I made a large batch of five-spice eggs and sold them with my group, with all the funds donated to the Cancer Foundation. It was a meaningful experience, and I felt proud to contribute to such a worthy cause.

SHARING BY A STAFF MEMBER

A New Journey at 46 — A Beautiful Midlife Chapter with CASS

I am Pauline Kim, former Senior Executive Officer of the Multicultural Home Ageing Services (Multicultural HAS) team. My journey at CASS started over 17 years ago.

After immigrating to Australia in 1989 and raising two children, a simple question “What more can I do here?”. It led me to study welfare at TAFE. In 2008, when my children started high school, I joined CASS part-time at age 46, marking the start of a meaningful and fulfilling chapter.

My initial role was to provide home care services to Korean seniors, helping improve their quality of life and supporting a healthy and safe old age. At first, I felt that even this small role was more than I deserved. Back then, we had only 15 Korean seniors receiving services, and CASS was the only organisation with Korean staff offering culturally and linguistically appropriate care.

There were certainly more people in need of services, but due to limited government funding, we were unable to take on additional clients. Though we tried to refer them to other mainstream providers, many struggled to receive adequate support due to language and cultural barriers.

Everything changed with the 2017 Aged Care Reform, which allowed seniors to choose their own service providers. This was a major turning point.

Motivated by the hope that “more Korean seniors could benefit from quality services,” my colleagues and I began working tirelessly. As a result, we were able to expand our services through CHSP (Community Home Support Program) and HCP (Home Care Package), now supporting over 800 Korean clients.

Our Korean staff team also grew alongside this expansion. From just two part-time office staff and a handful of support workers in the beginning, we now have over 130 Korean staff members dedicated to supporting the lives of our seniors. The service has since grown beyond the Korean community to include Vietnamese, Indonesian, and other multicultural communities.

Looking back, the opportunities and support I received from CASS allowed me to grow step by step, contributing to society and finding a true sense of belonging.

Though the journey had challenges, every moment with colleagues and clients has become a cherished memory. The efforts and sacrifices made to serve others brought me immense joy and gratitude. Whenever I felt inadequate, the kindness and encouragement of those around me kept me going.

My time at CASS remains one of the most meaningful chapters of my life. While I have stepped down from my executive role, I will continue to serve as a Board Director of CASS Care, supporting the community with ongoing commitment. I hope to dedicate the rest of my life to bringing happiness to others, guided by grace and humility.
